A. J. Whiting returned Monday night from St Louis and other eastern points, where he purchased his stock of fall and winter goods for his big department store. He says that the war has created a disturbed condition in the eastern markets and no prices are quoted which are not subject to change on short notice. All imported goods have advanced in some cases as much as fifty per cent and the toy market is all shot to pieces as most of our toys are made in Germany and Japan. Santa Claus will have to be satisfied with a limited supply of toys this year unless conditions should change very soon. One big toy concern refused to consign $25,000 worth of toys at the present advanced prices.

Portal In South Wall of Palace of Education, Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, 1915

Copyright, 1914, by Panama-Pacific International Exposition Co.

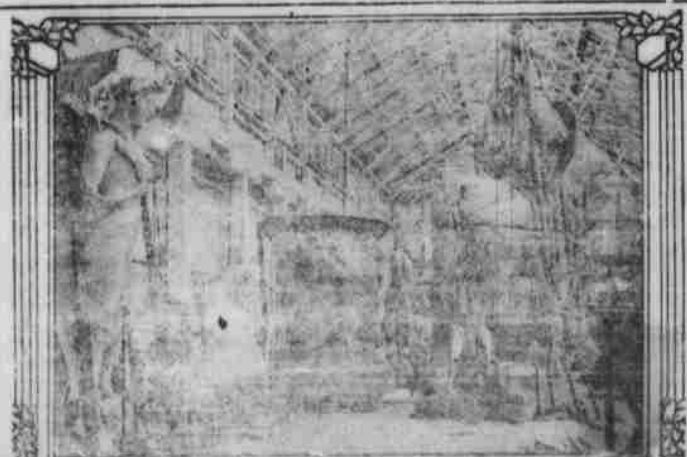

THE doorway shown is one of the lesser portals of this palace and overlooks the South Gardens and the southern end of the Fine Arts Lagoon. In influence the portal is early Italian renaissance. The twisted fluted Roman columns have been given an eastern flavor by the application of contrasting colors in alternation, applied under the direction of Jules Guerin, director of color of the Exposition. The portal is over thirty feet in height. The outer wall of the palace is sixty-five feet high.
